Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: With respect to claim 1, the combination of Suzuki et al. and Ando et al. does indeed teach all of the limitations in claim 1. Suzuki et al. teaches the use of an external broadcasting component that receives information and presenting the received information on a cellular phone in Drawings 1, 2 and Paragraphs [0013] - [0015]. Ando et al. teaches using a broadcasting component that receives TV in Drawing 1. The combination of Suzuki et al. and Ando et al. is obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to try so that one can receive TV broadcast signals through an external component of a cellular phone and present the received signals onto the cellular phone.
